Rockwell Collins at Singapore Airshow 2018: Showcasing innovative and reliable solutions for airlines, airports and defense

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (Jan. 29, 2018) - Rockwell Collins will build upon its long-standing commitment to the Asia-Pacific region at the Singapore Airshow, Feb. 6-11, by showcasing its growing capabilities both on and off the aircraft—cockpit, cabin, communications and connectivity.

"We look forward to demonstrating our company's unique capabilities to meet our customers' needs in the Asia-Pacific region," said Colin Mahoney, senior vice president, International & Service Solutions for Rockwell Collins. "In particular, we are looking forward to sharing a number of important announcements that reflect the rapidly growing market for our products and services in the region."

Highlights for Rockwell Collins at Singapore include:

- Announcing the first international customer for the company's next-generation AR-1500 networked communications airborne radio
- Announcing a new avionics win with an existing customer for 74 aircraft
- Selection by a major airline for Rockwell Collins' network solutions
- Major contract renewal for Rockwell Collins' Airport solutions

A leading provider of innovative and reliable solutions for airlines, airports and defense throughout the Asia-Pacific region, Rockwell Collins (Stand D23) will showcase its cockpit modernization for next-generation operations, demonstrate how it is expanding the visual realm, show how it is enabling the connected aircraft and display its communications for mission success.

Specifically, attendees can visit the exhibit to see a WholeEarth™ demonstration by the company's EP-8100 high performance image generation system. In addition, representatives from ACCEL Flight Simulation, a Rockwell Collins/Haite High-Tech joint venture, will also be on hand to showcase one of its industry-leading simulators and provide information about its technical service and support to commercial aircraft platforms.
